Sherman's Orders for His March.
FIELD FIGHTER, NO. 120—HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI, IN THE FIELD, Kinston, Ga., November 3.—For the purpose of military operations this army is divided into two wings. The right wing, General O. O. Howard commanding, the 15th and 17th Corps; the left wing, Major-General H. W. Slocum commanding, the 14th and 20th Corps.

The habitual order of march will be, whenever practicable by four roads, as nearly parallel as possible, and converging at points hereafter to be indicated in orders. The cavalry, Brigadier-General Kilpatrick commanding, will receive special orders from the Commander-in-Chief. The III Corps will be no general train of supplies, but each corps will have its ammunition and provost train, distributed habitually as follows:—Behind each regiment should follow one wagon and one ambulance; behind each brigade should follow a due proportion of ammunition wagons, provision wagons and ambulances. In case of danger, each army corps should change this order of march by having its advance and rear brigade interchanged by wheel. The rear regiments will start habitually at 7 A. M., and make about fifteen miles per day unless otherwise fixed in orders.

IV. The army will forge liberally on the country during the march. In this end, each brigade commander will organize a good and sufficient foraging party, under the command of one or more district officers, who will gather near the route traveled, corn or forage of any kind, meat of any kind, vegetables, corn meal, or whatever is needed by the command, so as to keep in the wagons trains at least ten days' provisions for the command and three days' forage. Foragers must not enter the dwellings of the inhabitants, or commit any wrongs, during the march, except in cases of necessity, when the army is unmet, nor of destruction of such property should be permitted; but should garrison or bushwhackers molest any man, or should the inhabitants burn bridges, shoot roads, or otherwise impede the march, then army corps commanders should order and enforce a devastation more or less intensive, according to the measure of such conduct.

V. As far as possible, arms, wagons, &c., belonging to the inhabitants, the cavalry and artillery may appropriate freely and without limit; discriminating, however, between the rich, who are usually hostile, and the poor or industrious, usually neutral or friendly. Foraging parties may also take mules or horses to replace the jaded animals of their trains, or to serve as pack-mules for the regiments or brigades. In all foraging, of whatever kind, the parties engaged will refrain from abusing or threatening language, and may, when the officer in command thinks proper, give written certificates of the facts, but no receipts; and they will endeavor to leave with each family a reasonable portion for their maintenance.

VII. Negroes who are able-bodied and can be of service to the several columns, may be taken along; but such army commander will bear in mind that the question of supplies is a very important one, and that his first duty is to see to those who bear arms.

VIII. The organization at once of a good provost guard for each corps, composed, if possible, of negroes, will be attended to. This battalion should follow the advanced guard, should repair roads and double them if possible, so that the columns will not be delayed after bad places. Also, army commandants should study the habit of giving the "go" and "stop" commands, but the personal safety of every man, in a great measure, depends upon the enforcement of discipline, and the care of supplies and ammunition.

IX. Major-General Storer, the Inspector General, Assistant Adjutant General,

TO THE PUBLIC.

Our intention that those connected with our solemnities and festivities of the day, this evening, should be allowed to do so in a great measure, upon the hours of rest of the public late and important from General SHERMAN. In order, not to encroach more than is necessary upon the hours of rest of the public late and important as always appear.

THE LATEST FROM GEORGIA.

Sherman's Movement—A Warm Reception awaiting the Invader.

MACON, Nov. 18.—The excitement in this city has been intense.

No definite information of the whereabouts of the enemy has yet been received. They are expected to be in the neighborhood of Gordon, having started in that direction.

The following is a copy of an order received from General SHERMAN:

"I am sending you a copy of my order, dated 18th instant, to Sherman's Army, commanding him to come here."

Received information.

MACON, Nov. 19.—The military authorities, citizens and negroes, and every man, are under strict confinement. Confidence is being reposed.

The enemy is believed to be on our right, about thirty miles. The city will be dimension to the last.

The War in Georgia.

From the Richmond Examiner, Nov. 18.

A press telegraph informed us that Sherman was expected to be at or near Griffin, Ga., Friday last. Atlanta, in the surrounding country, extending from the headwaters of the Chattahoochee to the headwaters of the Flint, where the State line separates it from Georgia, was seized and thrown into the flames.
